

AUTHENTIC LEADERSHIP

3-day Course

PURPOSE

Each one of us on this planet is being called to take authentic action and responsibility about ourselves, our work and the planet. Authentic Leadership is a three day experience which joins together masterminds in the various fields of learning and human potential to co-create an experience of what leadership is in our current reality. This workshop lays foundation to empower ourselves and those around us in becoming conscious leaders of the future.

Our three day workshop offers each individual true insight about themselves on how to be masterful at leading in today's current demands. Together we uncover barriers that are holding us back while at the same time finding our truest strengths and connecting them to ourselves, our work and others.

Each participant is invited to take an individualized leadership assessment with personalized results, created by Living Change, an $850.00 value in order to truly understand ourselves in leadership settings and leverage our truest strengths.

The end of this workshop participants walk away with a plan to support their organization through their authentic modalities and be able to implement them immediately upon returning to their personal and professional lives.

TARGET AUDIENCE

Individuals who truly desire to go beyond their current reality of how they work with others a territory of proven mastery.

PREREQUISITES

Experience teaching others, delivering information.

EXPECTED OUTCOMES

As a result of this training, Authentic leaders are able to:

- Call upon our inner strength – the center in the midst of chaos
- Self awareness and somatic experiencing
- Creating a sacred space for real learning
- Set and maintain context
- Continuously establish trust to enroll others
- Listen the messages of communication
- deepen understanding of ourselves and others
- Using nature for intelligence
- And much more...

LEARNING MODALITIES

The following are some ways we will be learning together

- Pre workshop assessments and reflection
- Face to face workshop including self analysis, reflection, individual, pair and group exercises
- Practice sessions with relevant content
- Group review and open discussion

REFERENCE DOCUMENTS

The instructional methodology is accelerative processes. Transform is internationally recognized as a leader in the application of accelerative learning processes. Through a systemic (systems) approach, the learner experiences left brain cognitive material in a way which results in changed behavior. The learning environment appeals to all 7 Intelligences (Howard Gardner's Frames of Mind) and complex learning styles, so the content presented is also "learned" in a left brain manner after it is experienced in a right brain manner. The accelerative processes context the material we present so the learning is both highly interactive and deeply personal, as well as application and results oriented.

Our design philosophy is experiential learning leading to applied change. We model the process. By getting diverse people together, dissolving defensive separation barriers through immediate involvement in energetic purposeful participatory exercises, "learning" happens in ways which participants get "Aha's" regarding their own, and group paradigms that are blocking their effective performance as leaders. Then structure and processes are explained that transform the learning experience into a tool that the learner/leader can use. Briefly: "Do it." "What did you do?" "How did you do it?" "What was the effect of doing it?" "How can you do it again?"

We use multiple authors and researchers for this program and we share this information with you as you are experiencing it in the course so that you have a dynamic understanding of the material.